Getting There

In the middle of the North Atlantic only a 2 hour flight from Copenhagen, is an unspoiled archipelago. The Faroe Islands is a small country with a fascinating history and language, a singularly unique culture, and beautiful nature. There are year round daily flights from Copenhagen, Denmark, and twice a week from Reykjavík, Iceland. During the summer routes also operate from Billund, Aalborg, Bergen, Edinburgh, Barcelona, Palma and Lisabon. Atlantic Airways can also provide charters to the Faroe Islands from many European destinations.

Facilities

A wide variety of accommodations are available which range from nice B&Bs to excellent 3 and 4 star hotels. The hotels offer top facilities and services for sports teams, their assistants, officials, supporters, and press. Potential venues for tactical meetings, press conferences, etc. vary from charming historically meeting halls to excellently staffed, 5 star banquet facilities.

Experiences

Our magnificent natural environment is conducive to extraordinary outdoor adventures, excursions, and team building activities. The diverse Faroese landscape provides experiences ranging from easy and cozy, to severe and extreme e.g. city walks, hiking in the mountains, rapelling and climbing steep cliffs, rowing competitions, cruising on a schooner, extreme speed boating, fishing in the Atlantic Ocean, flying in a helicopter, home visits, concerts in a grotto, etc. These activities, coupled with Nordic cuisine and Faroese art and culture, can provide a unique experience in the Faroe Islands.
